ORGANIC AAHARAM.... From Field To Plate

OUR STORY — OrganiC Aaraham was established by the Janhit Foundation in 2007 as part of our campaign to promote organic sustainable agriculture in Uttar Pradesh. By promoting a more sustainable and more profitable means of farming we hope to reduce water pollution and water consumption, restore the bio-diversity to the farms and rural environment and break the cycle of farmer debt which causes untold misery. Organic Aaraham allows us to provide over 400 farmers a direct access to the market place without any middle men, allowing them to maximize their profits and increase their household incomes.

The farmers grow a wide range of produce including pulses, vegetables, grains, and sugarcane. They practice multi cropping instead of the negative monoculture farming associated with chemical cultivation. This increases the bio-diversity and health of the environment on their farms.

We provide all our farmers with weekly guidance and support in the conversion from chemical to organic farming. Our dedicated staff organise training programs on organic manuring, crop rotation and many other areas as well as establishing strong support networks amongst the farming fraternity. We also provide farmers with organic bio fertilisers and pesticides sourced from both traditional and modern methods. All of these inputs are provided on a non profit basis and at a minimal cost for our farmers.

OUR FARMERS — We work with all farmers interested in organic farming, but particularly focus our efforts on the poorest and most marginalised schedule caste farmers who often own just a single acre of land to provide for their families. By assisting them in converting to organic and providing a platform to sell their crops at a high premium we are able to assist them in getting the most out of their small holdings. Our farmers are vital to our cause and we feel it is important to acknowledge their efforts, so every year we award those farmers who have shown the greatest commitment and enthusiasm. As an organisation we are very proud to be associated with every one of them.

THE DIFFERENCE YOU CAN MAKE — By buying our products you are supporting hundreds of small scale marginalised farmers and helping us to restore the environment of rural Uttar Pradesh. You are supporting our efforts to save and conserve water, reduce and prevent pollution and help those rural communities adapt to the growing pressures of climate change.
